DCFS sends 48 youth to college with scholarships

That magical period between high school and college was a dream come true for 48 students who earned the 2012 DCFS Scholarship. They head to school with medical benefits, a $471 monthly maintenance grant and a waiver of tuition and mandatory fees if they attend one of the nine designated Illinois state universities or an Illinois community college.

The DCFS Scholarship Program is open to any college-bound youth with an open DCFS case or to youth who left DCFS custody through adoption or guardianship. This year more than 325 students applied. The selection committee pored over impressive submissions that highlighted the student's scholastic accomplishments, their demonstrated community involvement and compelling personal statements. After thorough review, the 48 recipients celebrated at a luncheon coordinated by the Division of Service Intervention and the Walter and Connie Payton Foundation. The luncheon was preceded by an informative session to prepare the young people for a successful start to their college careers. Then it was time for the fun. Alhambra restaurant provided a lush landscape for a buffet lunch and an upbeat program.

Director Calica encouraged the students to soak up knowledge and also all the experiences that come with college, even coping with

From the DCFS Director

Richard H. Calica

In the nine months that I have been DCFS Director, much has happened in terms of budget and programs and I believe caregivers deserve a candid snapshot of our current condition.

Each state department goes before the state's budget office in the spring to discuss how much money it needs to get the job done. The Governor then presents the overall budget to the state Legislature for approval and funding. However, this simple process often gets complicated by reality. Our state owes $8 billion in unpaid bills, there's a $2.6 billion Medicaid problem, and the pensions are grossly under funded. Even as I write this it is impossible to predict where all the dust will settle. By the time you read this, things could have changed significantly.

This is what I can tell you. The DCFS budget that was eventually approved by the Legislature arrived at DCFS with deeper cuts than I anticipated. I knew I could cut 250 non-critical positions and move those employees to front-line jobs, serving families directly and providing us with adequate staff to do investigations and work with children in foster care. Yet, the budget handed down was slashed by $50 million more than the Governor's budget proposed. The Legislature specifically targeted a $27,000,000 reduction in staff salaries. That required a reduction in the DCFS workforce of 375 employees, beyond what was already in play. Thus, in August almost 600 employees received notice that their positions were being eliminated as of September 30.

Our agency has to focus our limited resources on the core, legally mandated responsibilities of safety, permanency and well-being. The positions targeted by the layoff were therefore concentrated in areas outside of those core responsibilities, even though the work done in those jobs may have had a very positive impact on the families we serve. No cuts were made to contracts or staff associated with foster care. At the same time, 200 direct service vacancies will be opened in casework and investigations. There is a very specific process that the labor union must conduct to move employees into other positions. While the process is precise, it will not be neat and tidy. As it plays out, I can only ask for your patience.

Meanwhile, I have been working diligently to realign the agency's structure so that we can do more than just get the job done. We have to do a better job and do it more efficiently. We have moved resources in ways that make more sense and will lead to better outcomes. We have also lost programs that we simply could not afford to continue.

I know that we all do this work out of passion and with a purpose that cannot be quantified on a balance sheet. Given what we have to work with, I will ask you what I have asked of every DCFS staff member. In the midst of all this, we have to keep focused on serving children and families. With our help, children and families will feel safe and secure, will be able to engage in meaningful relationships, and will be able to work productively as students, parents, and employees. It is our core mission and it is one that together we can accomplish.

roommates. The words of the Chicago Bears legend Walter Payton echoed in the room as DCFS Guardian D. Jean Ortega-Piron read from his autobiography, "If you believe in something and you work at it, there is going to be hope and there is going to be a way," he stated. The Payton Foundation, the Department and the family members, caseworkers and mentors that supported the students helped make a way for these 48 to start a new chapter in their education life.

To give them a glimpse of what success can look like, two young people who had graduated college with the DCFS Scholarship addressed the audience. Kethan Hedrick graduated this spring after only three years, while caring for his younger siblings as an adoptive parent. He is about to begin law school. Denae Knox, a recipient from 1999, offered advice on putting past negative experiences in perspective and using them to drive you forward. Now on campus, the future shines brighter for 48 fortunate students.

The DCFS Youth in Scholarship Program is available to youth currently in DCFS care and to those who left Department guardianship through adoption or private guardianship arrangements. The purpose of the program is to ensure that those selected have the opportunity to earn a bachelor's degree in four years or less.

Scholarship Program Student Applications are routinely available in January with a deadline of March 31. Applicants must have a high school diploma or GED by the end of the current school year. Contact the Office of Education and Transition Services at 312-814-5959 for more information.

Illinois Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council Bulletin

The Northern Region hosted the Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council for its July meeting in Aurora.

Healthcare changes

The council continued to track the potential impact on families from the recently upheld federal Affordable Care Act and changes to the state Medicaid Program. Vince Champagne from the DCFS Office of Health Services reported that few of the Medicaid changes will directly affect children in care. The Department of Healthcare and Family Services did create guidelines about how to handle pre-approval for patients with more than 10 prescriptions. The good news announcement was that children in foster care are exempt. Staff in the Office of Health Services is available to answer other Medicaid questions at 312-814-5516.

Media Campaign

Caregivers (and the general public) may soon see another phase of the Foster Kids Are Our Kids media campaign on television. Ann Klassman unveiled the newest public service commercials with the theme "Where is the love?" The public service announcements encourage individuals to take an active role in supporting youth in foster care.

Discussion with Director Calica

The Director had frank discussion with the council on the budget situation and the agency restructuring. All direct service is in one place under one administrative structure. "Everything else is to help achieve our core mission of permanency, safety and well being," he said.

He also addressed the layoffs notices that had to be sent to 597 people, a number much higher than he had planned before losing another $50 million in the final budget. Many of those receiving notices are union employees so he is reviewing the options for laid off employees. Realistically, service level may degrade some as the dust settles. He is asking everyone to stay focused, remembering the most important job is to care for kids.

The council elected Gladys Boyd as vice chair and Cathy McCoy as chair for the new fiscal year.

Caregivers help craft new Implementation plans

Each year the Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council must review each of the foster care programs' Foster Parent Law Implementation Plans. The public period for review and comment begins in September. Typically the DCFS and private agency programs take any public input into consideration as they prepare the plans for 2013. The new plans will be due to the council by November 30.

The Foster Parent Law stipulates that agencies demonstrate that caregivers participated in creating the implementation plan. Typically they announce meetings in the fall to discuss the previous plan and changes for the new plan. The implementation plans must clearly describe how each foster care program upholds the foster parent rights and responsibilities in the Law.

All caregivers can review the previous year's plan. Some programs mail the plan to licensed homes. Others may have copies available at the administrative offices. If a foster caregiver needs more information about the actual plan or the process for drafting the new plan, each program has a Foster Parent Law liaison. The liaison is the primary contact for matters concerning the Law. Caregivers can also contact the DCFS Office of Caregiver and Parent Support at 217-524-2422 for assistance.

The Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council was founded in conjunction with the Illinois Foster Parent Law. Membership consists of caregivers, agency representatives and other experts in child welfare, who are appointed by the DCFS Director. The mandated positions for caregivers are spread among the DCFS regions.

The council holds open meetings at least six times a year, and more as needed, in locations around the state.

The next meeting of the Statewide Foster Care Advisory Council will be on October 19 in Effingham at 9 a.m.

Call the Office of Caregiver and Parent Support at 217-524-2422 for details.

More than just a free lunch with completed forms

Among the many forms that schools require families to complete, one that is especially important is the application for free or reduced price school meals (commonly referred to as the free lunch form). Funding from federal resources is often based on the number of students eligible for free or reduced lunch. Additionally, the income information from the applications can determine what programs a school may be able to offer.

Students who have an open DCFS case will automatically qualify for free meals. The form asks for a check mark “if a foster child (legal responsibility of welfare agency or court).” However, once a child moves to adoption, his or her case is closed; there is no longer an automatic qualification. Adoptive parents will have to complete the form with income information to determine if the family is eligible for free or reduced lunch based on income.

Some families choose not to apply, knowing their income will not be eligible. Still, it is important to write that on the form, sign it and return it. From the school’s perspective, every form counts when funding is at stake.

As one more reason to fill in the form, consider this warning. Some caregivers have reported that their child received meals at a reduced rate without a form, and then received a bill at the end of the year. The DCFS Educational Advisors urge caregivers to return the forms promptly so they take advantage of the benefits and avoid possible problems.

State fair tradition continues

Attending the state fair in Springfield and in DuQuoin has become a long-standing tradition for foster, adoptive and guardianship families. Families receiving DCFS support came in droves. In addition to reduced rate parking and admission to the fair, DCFS provided each eligible family member discounted carnival rides and $3 in free meal tickets. The State’s budget constraints prevented DCFS from sponsoring free bus transportation this year, but families carpoled and otherwise still found a way to make the trip.

At the DuQuoin State Fair, families gathered on Saturday, August 25 for a picnic-setting that included rides, games and food. Local organizations made contributions, and DCFS staff volunteered weekend time to ensure everyone had fun.

This year, DCFS sent out tickets to more than 800 foster, adoptive and guardianship families for Springfield. More than 150 families requested tickets to the picnic at the DuQuoin fair.

Fall flu season calls for flu vaccination

Getting the flu vaccination in October through December is the primary tool for preventing influenza. Most people over the age of five months can get the flu shot, including breast-feeding mothers.

Some of the symptoms associated with the flu are fever, headache, cough, sore throat, chills and fatigue. Some people are at higher risk of complications from having the flu, such as developing pneumonia. Those people who may be at higher risk for complications are children between six months and five years, pregnant women, people 50 years or older, and those with chronic illnesses.

The flu vaccination is available at no charge through the Vaccination of Children Program for those children enrolled in Medicaid; children with no health insurance; or children whose health insurance plans do not include vaccinations. For more information about the upcoming flu season, contact the Illinois Department of Health at 217-782-4977.

Central Region sends 8 to college with DCFS full scholarships

This year, eight students whose cases were served by programs in Central Region headed to college with the benefits included in the DCFS Scholarship program. The scholarship includes the waiver of tuition and mandatory fees at one of the nine Illinois state universities or an Illinois community college, a monthly maintenance grant of $471 and a medical card.

Scholarship recipients were chosen statewide on the basis of scholastic aptitude, a written personal statement and demonstrated community involvement. Next year's scholarship application process begins in January and ends in March. Contact the youth's caseworker or the DCFS Office of Education and Transition Services at 312-814-5959 for more information.

Message from Central Region's New Regional Administrator

I began my career with DCFS in 1986 as a caseworker in the Danville Field Office and served as a follow up supervisor and investigation supervisor in Central and Northern Regions.

Mike Ruppe

In 2000, I was fortunate to become a manager of field services in Northern Region and served as an assistant regional administrator there from 2002 to 2012 with responsibility for oversight of intact family services and child protection investigations.

I am very excited to be back in Central Region. As many of you may know, the Department is going through a period of change. In Central Region we have recently appointed seven area administrators that will provide supervision and guidance to the child protection and permanency supervisors throughout the region. These seven people will assist me in providing leadership to the region and we will be working as a team to further the Department's mission in providing safety, permanency and wellbeing to children and families. Other important members of our team that we interact with on a daily basis are our community partners and one of our most important team members—foster parents.

Foster parents play one of the most vital roles in our work with children. You as foster parents have a daily impact on the children in your homes, whether it be from something as simple as supporting them in daily activities to assisting them in gaining permanency by being involved in the case planning.

Your voice is important as we work together to further enhance services for children and families. Please feel free to express the challenges that you may face in order for the team to better coordinate our work and to enhance our support to you. Please give us feedback on what has worked well and resulted in positive outcomes for you and the children you care for. Tell us too about areas that we may need to enhance our focus on. By doing this we can often apply methods of success in working with others.

My team and I look forward to meeting you in the future and to partnering with you in continuing our important work!

— Mike Ruppe
Central Region Administrator

"Homecoming King" and "Prom King." As of this fall he is studying at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Kaylee Randolph

Kaylee started her college career at Lake Land College but transferred to Eastern Illinois University to complete the process of getting her Bachelor's Degree. Kaylee is involved in Phi Theta Kappa, a collegiate honors society, and the Honors Program. She also works as a substitute teacher and enjoys teaching children. Kaylee plans on majoring in Elementary Education, with a focus on earning a Title 1 (Reading) endorsement.

Deziree Vaughn

Deziree, from Washburn, is a graduate of Lowpoint-Washburn High School where she earned a 3.75 out of 4.0 GPA and was a member of the National Honor Society. She participated in track, softball, cheerleading and was member of the prom and homecoming courts. Deziree is

She is studying criminal justice at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Central Region DCFS Education Advisors have new assignments

The DCFS Education Advisors can help caregivers navigate obstacles in the school settings. The new school year brings a realignment of the staff that supports families. The new budget realities brought about changes to the structure reported in the last issue of the newsletter.

Going forward, the Education Advisors will assist only families with open DCFS cases that are supervised by the DCFS regional foster program. Youth whose cases closed through adoption or guardianship will have to utilize other resources in the community outside of DCFS. Caregivers supported by private agencies can continue to work with the Educational Liaisons that the individual agencies may provide. These changes are necessary to allow the program to continue to serve a large segment of DCFS youth and their foster caregivers.

Central Region Training

The DCFS Office of Training has scheduled sessions of in-service training modules and other courses in locations across the region. To get specific dates and locations, visit the on-line Virtual Training Center (VTC) anytime at www.DCFStraining.org. Click on any of the links under Training Schedule to access course descriptions, in-service training and Educational Advocacy Training or call the DCFS Office of Training at 877-800-3393 during business hours.

The Virtual Training Center (VTC) is your tool to:

- See training news and general information
- Check and register for available trainings
- Take on-line courses
- Download training materials and resources
- View/Print your training transcript

Lending Library Update

Due to reduced human and dollar resources the DCFS Lending Library has limited capacity to ship materials to caregivers. Although we will continue to ship as we are able, we need to avoid depleting these resources before the end of this fiscal year. Therefore, we are asking that caregivers go to www.dcfstraining.org and view the recently-updated lending library catalog. Find resources you wish to use and please go to your local library to order them. Most libraries can get materials from other libraries if they do not have them in their own stock.

To receive credit hours to meet licensing requirements, caregivers should complete and return the Training Credit Approval Form (TCAF). The Office of Training recently re-evaluated the eligible credit hours for items in the updated Lending Library catalog. The TCAF will reflect the credit hours. In-class and on-line courses will continue to receive credit based on the approved clock hour.

This toll-free line is operational Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., excluding state holidays. The line is equipped with voice mail. The calls can be about issues or concerns that caregivers have not been able to resolve through normal channels.

The goal is to have a response time of 24 to 48 hours for all calls. This is not set up to be an emergency response line. If a caregiver has an urgent request, it is best to call the field office or the after-hours number.

The Customer Service Line is designed for calls from foster families whose licenses are supervised by DCFS Central Region. Agency-supervised homes should work directly with the agency that monitors their license.

Training course materials now available online

As the Department has fewer printing resources available and moves into the digital age, the Office of Training has responded by making more materials available online. Caregivers can easily access many PRIDE materials on the home page of the Virtual Training Center at www.dcfstraining.org. Anyone may print the materials or download them for ready access on their mobile device during class. For most courses, individual sets of printed materials will no longer be given to all participants. However, those who do not have electronic access should speak with their trainers when they arrive to class, so they can be accommodated.
